

MUSIC at a Mass of Christian Burial at Holy Trinity Catholic Church: Instructions for Families

The music at a Mass of Christian Burial is best served by two professional musicians: the accompanist [piano, organ] and the cantor [singer]. Both the accompanist and cantor play or sing twelve to fifteen pieces of music or songs depending on the season, a substantial job that requires rehearsal and training.

Family Responsibilities

1. Do we have to pick out the musical selections? The answer is NO. At this difficult time of grief, the church does not require anyone to pick out music or readings. However, because families are often interested in singing or hearing favorite sacred songs, the music director for the Mass can usually accommodate suggestions, especially those from our Gather Comprehensive hymnal. Four songs total may be chosen, and a list of commonly requested songs follows.

2. Please contact the music director Dr. Sharon M. Hershey O.C.D.S. at your earliest convenience.

personal cell phone for calls and texts: 719-351-4480

email for documents and programs if needed: music@holyltrinitycos.org

Dr. Hershey is available to accompany most funeral Masses at the piano and organ and to arrange for the ministry of the cantor. If she is unavailable, the parish office will provide the family with contact information for other available Catholic music ministers.

3. What does it cost to have music at a funeral Mass?

The singer and accompanist each receive a minimum honorarium of $150, payable at the time of the funeral. A single musician both accompanying and singing receives a minimum honorarium of $200.

Dr. Hershey also can offer a simpler ministry with congregational songs and a solo psalm for $150.

4. Do we have another option if we cannot afford musicians?

Yes. There are ways to simplify the musical offerings at a funeral Mass. Also, a funeral outside of Mass needs less music than a full Mass. In both cases, call the music director or deacon immediately and bring up your concerns to find the best solution. We want to be here to serve your family in this time of need.

5. Do we have to have music at the funeral? The answer is NO.
